The luxury of original artwork.

I find luxury in many things: A spring breeze. A visit with friends.
A purring cat in my lap.

I also find luxury in the works of talented artists. There's something about a table or chair or blown glass vase made by human hands that feels both self-indulgent and soul-enriching.

But what makes original artwork so luxurious? We look for four main qualities:

- ◆ Fine materials. From exotic woods to precious metals, each material is carefully chosen to enhance an artwork's beauty. Britt Rynearson's silk masterpiece, "Imperial Throw," displays this quality on page 6.
- ◆ Skilled craftsmanship. Using practiced techniques, the artist lavishes attention on the smallest details. Daniel Pohl's "Tall Cabinet" is a stunning example on page 49.
- ◆ Original design. Through inventiveness and imagination, the artist infuses each piece with the spirit of its maker. See Hongsock Lee's "Cube Necklace" on page 58.
- ◆ Exquisite beauty. The all-important "wow" factor. You'll find it in Victor Chiarizia's blown glass "Gondola" on page 38.

With this catalog, I invite you to experience the luxury of original artwork made by today's finest artists. To find that one standout piece that speaks to you, that stirs your soul and inspires your creative spirit.

Enjoy our spring collection!
